Thanks for the photo, Charlie

I WOULD like to thank Charlie Bennett for the beautiful photo in GT of the Pilot Inn and the lavender field opposite. I was over the moon to see what a lovely change has been made to the Pilot Inn. When we lived down Blackwall Lane, where I was born, the Pilot round Riverway was our local and we spent many happy Saturday evenings with the family singing to the piano. It was just a small pub but it's been extended to a lovely inn and the little houses still standing, it's great.

Mrs C. Malcomber, Kidbrooke

You are kidding yourself, GT

GREENWICH Time and its reader Lorraine Savy (letters, July 17) are kidding themselves if they believe that "council-run" local papers do not harm the future of a free local press.

I am no fan of Eric Pickles but to suggest that his comments mean that GT needs "defending" is utter nonsense. It's not even doing a good job, look at the tiny panel given in the recent edition to the pressing questions arising from the demise of a local NHS Trust in comparison to the long rambling letter about the litter on Plumstead Common. GT can also be criticised for what it leaves out. There are no reports of local sports, no reviews of local cultural events, no small ads and above all (of course) no real critique of how well the council is doing - just more and more self-congratulatory nonsense.

A free press is vital to our democracy and a free council-sponsored newspaper should compete on a level playing field with its competitors.

Stephen Howard, Plumstead

● THANKS for your letter. GT cannot cover or comment on a number of the topics you raise as we are prevented from operating freely as a newspaper, nor can we comment on political issues, which is one reason why we are not challenging this sector.

By using GT as or main outlet for our advertising it saves £2 million a year as we would have to advertise our statutory notices in at least two other newspapers to achieve the same coverage.

Fraud result

CONGRATULATIONS to the new Housing Fraud Unit on recovering 50 properties which have been illegally let to sub-tenants. I am sure this unit will continue to recover more properties and be a big player in tackling benefit fraud and Housing and Council Tax benefit fraud and bringing those responsible to justice.

Graham Justine, Blackheath

Why are there 'tow away' signs in zone-free roads?

WITH regard to the parking restrictions brought in for the Olympic and Paralympic games, why has the royal borough erected "tow away" signs on at least two sections of the roads that were not listed as roads included in the Event Day Zones? I refer to Griffin Road and to the portion of Waverley Crescent between St

John's Terrace and Warwick Terrace
R. Keys, Plumstead
Radical Bowls Club
THANK you for the letter. Unfortunately, a few of the entry signs are in the wrong location.

Griffin Road shouldn't be in the zone but signs indicate it is.

A meeting has been held with council contractors to make the changes and a letter will be sent to inform residents.

A big thanks to litter keepers

AMID the self-congratulations being directed at the Olympics, can I on behalf of the residents of West Greenwich, thank the team of Cleansweep "litter keepers" for their supreme efforts in keeping the area clean and tidy. They have worked their "butts" off!

Hero's welcome

by Peter Cordwell

OLYMPIC silver medallist Gemma Gibbons got a hero's welcome back at Metro Judo Club, and told youngsters how shy she was when she started at the age of six.

"I was a bit overwhelmed by it all but I've managed to come a long way from there," she said. "I really started to enjoy it after a couple of sessions and I've loved it ever since."

"I dreamed about something like this from about the age of 11 because it was an Olympic sport and you dreamed of being an Olympian. Now I'm so happy that it's all come true."

Gemma was back at the royal borough funded dojo at Thomas Tallis school which is now home to Metro, just two weeks after millions saw her mouthed tribute to her late mum Jeanette when she reached the final at the ExCel Centre. "I was happy that I did it for her and also for myself," she said. "The kids today were really excited and they are part of it, this is my club and this medal goes to a lot of people. My next main goal is the gold in Rio."

Both Gemma and Metro head coach Mick Murphy said she would not have made it without the support of Greenwich Starting Blocks, the charity set up to help local elite athletes follow their dreams.

Leader of the royal borough, Chris Roberts said: "When we won the bid for London we decided to set up a charity and identify young talent with the potential to go to the Olympic Games. We were able to give support where it was needed, especially when athletes were injured or had lost their funding."

"We're very proud of the success of Gemma, Zoe Smith and Tosin Oke. Now we've got Andy Barrow going for a medal in the wheelchair rugby."

Starting Blocks trustees will also be meeting this week to discuss new ways of supporting athletes ahead of the 2016 Games in Rio. Cllr Roberts said: "The biggest percentage of medals are still being won by a small percentage of the population and we're sure there has been talent missing out because of their backgrounds."

"We intend to make sure that no-one locally fails to reach their potential through lack of support."

Ten-year-old yellow belt Katie Lovkin travelled to the Metro club to meet Gemma and see her silver medal. She said: "I've done six competitions and won five medals. Judo makes me happy and I'd like to be like Gemma one day."

A FORMER factory is being turned into a new university technical college where young people can follow courses in engineering and construction.

Work on the former Siemens factory on Woolwich Road is set to begin this month with the college opening its doors to the first intake of students next September.

The new UTC will provide places for 600 pupils aged 14 to 19 who would like to follow careers in engineering or construction, including transport and new "green" technologies, along with traditional GCSEs, A-levels and other courses.

The new college is sponsored by the Royal Borough of Greenwich, the University of Greenwich, Transport for London, Wates Construction, and Lewisham College.

It is one of 24 new UTCs offering courses created in partnership with employers, skills agencies and universities which will also be involved in offering mentoring, apprenticeships and work placements to students.

The aim is that each student will get a job, an apprenticeship or a place at university at the end of their course.

The refurbished building in Charlton will house new state-of-the-art accommodation equipped with the latest industry standard equipment and facilities as part of a £10m development.

Newly appointed principal Mike Sharp is currently head of Business, Information, Technology and Enterprise at the University of Greenwich and will take up his post in January next year.

He said: "There is a lot of excitement about the college as it will offer a new range of options for students aged 14-plus, with employers being directly involved in the development of curriculum."

"As well as getting traditional qualifications, students will benefit from mentoring and the chance to learn transferrable skills that will directly improve their employability."

Cllr Jackie Smith, the royal borough's cabinet member for children's services, said: "The college's role is to inspire today's young people to become the creators of tomorrow's world. The new college will provide enhanced choices for children and young adults between the ages of 14 and 19, focusing on vocational

A HOSPITAL radio station has gone live online. It means residents across the royal borough - and the world - can catch up with news and music from Meridian Radio. The station, which is based at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital and run by volunteers, went live for the arrival of the Olympic torch last month.

The station offers more than 50 hours of broadcasting a week to the public and in-patients. Shows run from 8am-10pm with hourly news bulletins.

ROYAL BOROUGH OF GREENWICH

THE post-Olympic blues may have set in for many of us, but it's just a week before the excitement is cranked up again and the Paralympics begin.

The cauldron at the Olympic Park is lit at the opening ceremony on August 29, by a torch that will have travelled from the four corners of the UK.

The torch relay reaches London earlier in the day and travels through Greenwich in the afternoon.

The flame enters the Royal Borough of Greenwich at 3.44pm on August 29, starting at Deptford Church Street before turning right onto Creek Road.

The torch continues along Creek Road towards Greenwich town centre, turning left onto Greenwich Church Street, where the torchbearers will head into Cutty Sark Gardens, arriving at around 4pm, before departing by boat from Greenwich Pier for the Isle of Dogs.

More than 500 torchbearers from around the country will have held the flame before it arrives at the Olympic Park at 10pm.

Four torches start the journey at the highest peaks in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland, tomorrow (August 22).

The flames come together at the home of the Paralympics - Stoke Mandeville, Buckinghamshire - on August 28, where they are joined as one for the last leg of the journey into London.

Leaving Stoke Mandeville at 10pm, it's a 24-hour procession to the stadium in Stratford for the opening ceremony.

It's in the same format as the Olympic torch relay, with the Paralympic flame-carriers coming from all backgrounds and walks of life, the only difference is that this time they are holding the torch in teams of up to five at a time.

• The relay route through Royal Greenwich is online at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/paralympictorch, and shows street-by-street details and times

WHEEL THING: Jamie Grace has a spin on the BMX track in Hornfair Park, Charlton

BMX project a special legacy from London 2012

by Peter Cordwell

WHEN it comes to the borough's Olympic legacy, there's one place that already seems to have more ticks than boxes.

The BMX track in Hornfair Park, Charlton – a year old next month – is a great new facility for local young people that gets them active and involved in an Olympic sport.

It's also run by local parents who have set up BMX Greenwich, the club that helped Greenwich compete – and finish an excellent fourth – at this year's London Youth Games event that was held at the track.

"This is how Olympian Shanaze Reade started out and we would love it if someone from Hornfair Park competed at Rio in 2016," said Jennie Grace, the club's 'Go Ride' officer.

"My younger son, Luke, who's 10, joined in November and Jamie, who's 16, started in January. He's now completed a level 1 coaching course, which I think is excellent. It's given him extra confidence and he's even helping the adults who come along."

There's a lot of interest from others after the Youth Games success.

"We were one point away from third place, not bad for our first try," said Jennie.

"My husband Keith and I had never done anything like this before. Keith taught me to ride a bike and now we all go on cycling holidays.

"Access Sport and the council worked so hard to get this track so we're really pleased it's already been such a success. I think BMX is great for young people.

"We're getting more girls starting, which is great. All the young people find it so different and once they start they want to get good at it."

One of them is her son, Jamie, who has won novice events after starting in March.

"I was taught by the club's coaches, then bought my own bike and became a coach myself," he said. "I like the atmosphere at the races. It's like one big family, everyone is so friendly and helps each other. It's just a really nice place to be.

"I'm not the best but I try my best and would love to reach Olympic standard. Some people take it really seriously but for me it's basically a sport to enjoy. There are professional coaches and I wouldn't mind becoming one. It's a great sport."

HOSPITAL radio volunteer Vivienne Ahmad has already told everyone about her starring role in London 2012 over the airwaves.

As well as covering the Olympic torch arrival in Greenwich for patient radio at the Queen Elizabeth, she recalled her role as a volunteer on her own show.

Vivienne, who also got tickets to two of the local events, was lucky enough to attend both the opening and closing ceremonies of the Games.

The resident from Shooters Hill, volunteered for the Games and got a role as an audience leader rousing spectators and directing them in synchronised moves.

The former NHS worker told GT: "I was given the role of an audience leader responsible for keeping spirits high by guiding, instructing, dancing and entertaining around 500 audience guests in my aisle number 131.

"We dressed up as 'mechanicals' and looked like painters with white hats and dungarees along with a bag of goodies including torches so we could guide our audiences at night.

"We had four dress rehearsals and two with audiences before the actual night. The highlights were chatting to Lord Coe and Danny Boyle.

"The audience for the opening ceremony were in great spirits and it made my job easier to lead them by chatting to some of them. The night ended quite late and I staggered home by 3am.

"For the closing ceremony we did not have any rehearsals until the actual day as there was not much time after the change over in the stadium from the previous night's athletics.

"We also marshaled in the athletes down the aisles and coming down our aisle were some of Team GB including Rebecca Adlington, Victoria Pendleton and Tom Daley - who gave each of us volunteers a high five!

"When Lord Coe gave thanks to the volunteers in his speech, 80,000 people gave a loud response which made me feel really emotional as I knew I had done something positive! It was great being given a certificate for our work and also the programmes for both the opening and closing ceremonies. We also get to keep our costumes!

"It was a great experience working in a team of 300 amongst 10,000 ceremony volunteers, and I've made many friends and contacts as well as meeting people like Lord Coe, Danny Boyle, and some of the athletes," said Vivienne who also saw shooting events at Woolwich Barracks and gymnastics at the North Greenwich Arena. "London 2012 has certainly inspired not one 'but all' generations - it was amazing to be part of the greatest show on earth," she said.

Horse play is cafe's mane attraction

EQUESTRIAN enthusiast Jennifer MacLeod-Burton has been celebrating the Olympics with a unique display of horse photographs.

When the coffee shop worker isn't at the cafe by the Cutty Sark, she is a show jumper competing at locations around the country each weekend.

She decided to share pictures of her horses and stills from competitions by displaying them for customers to see during the 2012 equestrian events.

She told GT: "My manager thought it would be a nice idea to share some of my photos as the regulars know that I compete. We thought it could be a nice way to generate interest and give customers something to look at." And she hopes the success of the equestrian events in Greenwich Park will encourage more people to get involved in the sport.

"It would be nice to see more people get into the sport," she added. "I know a lot of people think you need a lot of money to get into the sport, but you don't. You can loan horses and have lessons at a local riding school and can be any age."

Team GB won a three golds, one silver and one bronze medal in the 2012 equestrian events. "It was amazing to be part of it, the events went really well and looked great. I got tickets for the final of the show jumping and that was really great too," Jennifer said.

Poetry corner

Olympic torch held high in the sun,
Carried around the course, see the people run.
Diver's jump, head first they plunge,
Into the awaiting cold blue gunge.
The long jump, feet like springs,
The crowd roars, Olympians ear rings.
100metres they run very fast,
Knowing that they can't come last.
Through their effort they feel themselves slowing,
But know they have to keep on going.
Lucozade or Powerade isn't the source of their power,
But determination and training hour after hour.
Sweat oozes from their body, their muscles ache,
But all is forgotten now they have won race.
Interviewed though out of breath,
Gold medal finally around their neck.
We are all like Olympians, challenges we face,
We all have rivals but we must win the race.
We must overcome the hurdles and run to the line,
Because life isn't always going to be fine.
Study everyday and don't think you can rest,
'Cause that's the only way you'll be the best.

ARTI Patel had just finished an education studies degree at the University of Greenwich when she was presented with tickets to the opening ceremony of the Olympic Games.

The 22-year-old was nominated to receive tickets in a royal borough competition about unsung heroes because of her dedicated mentoring work with children in care. "I was so excited to go," she said. "I had butterflies in my stomach. My boyfriend came too and he was more excited than me! As we were entering the stadium that view of it in all its glory was just amazing. It was the greatest time of my life. I stayed for the fireworks and everything."

Arti heralds Rowan Atkinson's appearance as Mr Bean as her favourite moment during the ceremony. "Rowan is my all-time favourite comedian. When he came on it was just great and so funny."

Arti is currently helping out with the Paralympics in the Olympic Village for the Paralympics. She added: "It's just extraordinary to be part of all of this. I'm meeting new friends and connecting with people and I'm having lots of fun."

Amazing A

A ROYAL borough school which was the first secondary school in the country to win an Exceptional Schools award, was celebrating its A-level exam success last Thursday.

Woolwich Poly received the award last month following exceptional OFSTED reports.

The quality mark of excellence is given to outstanding schools by the Best Practice Network, a group of education experts which advises schools.

A-level results for the school's mixed sixth form showed that 82% achieved an A*-C grade at A-level. Of this, 37% were in the very top grades of A*-A and 58% achieved A*-B.

Cllr Jackie Smith, the royal borough's cabinet member for children's services, said: "These achievements underline the value of excellent leadership and teaching in bringing about success. These features, and the support of the local authority, are much more important than a school's status, or whether or not it is an academy."

And in a report by The Times newspaper Education secretary Michael Gove refers to: "The marvellous Woolwich Polytechnic School."

Woolwich Poly student Amritpal Samra, who obtained two A*s and two As, is going to King's College London to study mathematics. He told GT: "The opportunities and support at this school are second to none. There is always an open door in every classroom and every office for any student here."

Exceptional results at the John Roan School and Plumstead Manor mean they are now well above the national rate for A-C passes, while Crown Woods has made a big improvement in its A-C pass rate.

Sharan Sanghara, head of the sixth form at John Roan said: "We have seen another amazing set of results from our students. Staff and students have worked really hard this year and the hard work has paid off! We are really proud of all our students."

Over at Plumstead Manor students gathered at the Frank Lerner Centre, their new sixth form base from next year, to get their results.

They saw a pass rate of 82% at A*-C and 47% of grades at A*-B, a 10% increase on last year. Headteacher Sue Flanagan said: "It's so great to see our students celebrating their success and knowing that they are ready to embark on the next stage of their life. They and their teachers have worked together to achieve this and we all wish them well in their future."

The G Plus centre at Shooters Hill saw a 99% pass rate with 200 second year level 3 learners leaving this summer.

Headteacher Mark Vincent said: "Another record-breaking year for the Campus! Two hundred and twenty level 3 students have successfully passed their qualifications and are now going into work or to university."

"I am so proud of the talent and hard work shown by our students and staff. It's a really positive day for our local community."

of Greenwich students have achieved grades they need to take them on to university and further education. Results in the royal borough show that more than two-thirds (67%) of A-level results were at grade A*-C. The overall pass rate in Greenwich (at grades A*-E) was 98% - results which exceeded the national figure. Also receiving their results last Thursday were students who have completed vocational BTEC

Making plans

Ben Steer was eagerly awaiting his results at Crown Woods College with his parents Jacki and Ronnie. He achieved a B in physics, a B in chemistry, an A in ICT and a D in music.

The 18-year-old said: "I'm a bit miffed that I was one mark off an A* in ICT, but apart from that I'm pleased. I'm going to Queen Mary's University to do computer science and would like to do a PhD down the line."

"One of the teachers who helped me a lot is Mr Tierney. There wasn't a question he couldn't answer, we used to test him to find out if he couldn't answer one, and it got quite annoying because he always had the answer!"

Georgia Gibbons from Crown Woods told GT: "I got a B in psychology and a Distinction Plus in BTEC Public Services. I'm going to Canterbury Christchurch to do policing. I've worked for the Police Cadets and have always been interested in working for them."

Eighteen-year-old Ryan Edmonds from Corelli College got an A in history, a C in English literature, an A* in sociology and an A in drama. He told GT: "I'm so happy with my results. I'm going to the University of Leeds to study history. I've always liked history because there's always more to learn and the opportunity to travel and learn about different cultures. My sociology teacher and head of year Mr Tom Morrissey has really helped me this year."

Fellow student Stuart Simpson, also 18, achieved a B in physics, an A in maths and a C in English. "I want to do physics when I leave college. My results got me a place at the University of Sussex so it's all good."

Megan Sullivan from Thomas Tallis said: "I want to do an MA when I'm older in biological anthropology which will lead to forensics."

She achieved an A in English lit, a B in classical civilization and an A* in philosophy. "I'm going to the University of Bristol to do English and classics."

qualifications. They achieved a 99% pass rate. Seventy three per cent of BTEC grades awarded in the borough were at grade A* to C, well above the national average. Cllr Jackie Smith, the royal borough's cabinet member for children's services, said: "Congratulations to all our students getting their A-level and BTEC results. We are very proud of their achievements and wish them well as they progress into higher or further education or into employment."

"The success of our students is testimony to the hard work put in by the students themselves. It also reflects the quality of teaching in our schools and the investment that we have made in improved buildings and facilities. It is great to see Greenwich students and Greenwich schools outperforming the national average." She added: "Securing good exam grades is as important today as ever it was, in enabling young people to pursue their dreams and achieve their full potential."

SCENE

IT'S a big enough challenge to take on one role in a Shakespeare play.

But Rebecca Loudon has gone one step further by playing TWO characters in A Midsummer Night's Dream at Greenwich Theatre later this month.

Rebecca plays the part of romantic lead Helena, as well as male carpenter Peta Quince. She told Scene: "I enjoy Helena's vulnerability, she leaves herself quite exposed."

"I'd like to play her without her being whiney and annoying - it's a fine line between being vulnerable and being quite hard done by and I'm going to try and make her humorous and likeable."

The actress added: "I've enjoyed playing Peta Quince - you can go anywhere with that character, we've made him quite hippyish. It's fun making a character from scratch as you haven't got as much scope for silliness with the other character I play."

The play is one of the Bard's quirkiest creations, which inhabits a world halfway between fantasy and reality.

And in an added twist, the Custom Practice theatre company has based it half in Shakespeare's time and half in modern times. It's on at the Crooms Hill venue from August 30 until September 1.

"We wanted to do something fun that was going to be entertaining and comedic for the audience and something that would get them involved," Rebecca said. "So we thought by playing two parts it would be an interesting way of doing that."

It's important to make classical writers like Shakespeare relevant, the actress reckons. "We like working with Shakespeare, as we are ethnically quite a diverse company, I'm half Indian, others are Jamaican and Italian," she said. "We think it's really important that people from all different walks of life and backgrounds have a chance to do the classics and we're very open about giving everyone a chance to play whatever part they're suitable for, regardless of their race.

"Shakespeare can tend to be quite a closed shop – people can perceive it for only being for white, middle class, educated people. We want to show that anyone can relate to his work. Themes like love, death, war – they're all experiences that we've come into contact with and anyone can relate to those themes." The show also explores the value of children's outdoor play in the modern section.

"We start the show in a school in a detention room. Children are given a copy of the play to read and they think it's rubbish and they can't be bothered.

"Our adaptation shows that children don't need to be playing on their Xbox and Playstation all the time. They need something like a good story and being active running through the forest playing. In our version of the play children are going back to their roots before we had technology."

"The children become part of the fantastical, magical world removed from a drab classroom and whisked away to fairy world."

There's also plenty of comedy in the performance. "It's a really fun production, easy to watch. It's really fast, not stiff and restricted and there's no space to get bored. The audience should be in hysterics and I want them to enjoy it for that."

Little Top big night

THE canvas flaps were lifted on the circus little top to reveal not a troupe of scary clowns or dancing horses, but a rather polite bunch of musicians playing classical standards.

There was no clowning around – it was all soft lighting, candles on tables, vases of flowers and the genteel strains of the Orchestra of the Age of Enlightenment at the Greenwich Summer Festival.

It was a refreshing setting, completely shedding the stuffy and high-collared image that orchestras are often associated with. The quintet started with a couple of Mozart's greatest hits – note-perfect of course, with every chord flowing meticulously from thin fingertips.

The show was part of the summer festival at the Old Royal Naval College, and the men's 200 metre finals were taking place on the big screen outside. But even the rowdy cheers for Usain Bolt's inevitable triumph failed to drown out the assertive hum inside, which was watched by an intimate crowd of no more than 50 people.

Double bass player Chi Chi even got into the competitive spirit by cheekily playing an excerpt from Chariots of Fire. Cue a relay of knowing titters.

INTIMATE SETTING: classical performance was in the Little Top

The key word in this band was 'team' – the five worked fantastically well together, keeping involved with each other through smiles, eye-contact and gestures.

Showing that they were pleased with their performance and enjoying themselves fed in symbiosis to the audience.

After the break, the next score was enchanting, mellow and thought-provoking in its pace. The musicians were relaxed in their approach but still kept incredibly focused and tuned into their efforts.

Composer Vanhal followed in the second piece with bass player Chi Chi being accompanied by two comrades on violin. She was the Queen of Hearts with her detailed approach to playing, and she seemed to be running the show with the rest of the ensemble following her lead. The changes in tone and speed kept up the interest.

And one of the most compelling numbers sailed away from the classical bedrock of the set and into folk territory, with the viola like a fiddle plucked almost like a banjo.

The only blot on the landscape was the plastic cynicism of the compere which seemed at odds with what was otherwise an elegant foray. But the group have been touring pubs, and the MC's clunky banter might have worked better in that context.

The set finished with all the applause the virtuoso musicians deserved. It was a great introduction to classical music, which flashed by faster than a Jamaican relay team at the Olympics. 8/10

GREENWICH TOURIST INFORMATION CENTRE Great Greenwich Treasure Hunt.

Sun Sep 16
GREENWICH Oxfam has teamed up with Visit Greenwich to turn visitors into super searchers with a massive treasure hunt around Greenwich town centre. The hunt consists of a number of questions that teams answer in the required time by visiting nearby sites and businesses. There will be prizes donated by local businesses, including a two-course lunch with drinks for six, and tickets for any show at Greenwich Theatre. The teams who take the most interesting photos will have their work displayed in an exhibition called 'Hidden Greenwich' at the Tourist Information Centre. The best photo wins a prize. Participants at the treasure hunt will get a free goody bag with money-off vouchers to use at local businesses.

Youth MPs speak out

TWO Royal Greenwich teenagers attended the UK Youth Parliament's 12th annual sitting at Nottingham University last month, to promote the views and concerns of Greenwich young people, and debate key manifesto aspects for the coming year. Seventeen-year-olds David Hall and Michael Omoniyi were among 254 MYPs attending the annual sitting of the UKYP. They went on behalf of Royal Greenwich youngsters, and learnt how to better represent them and their views. The weekend featured a number of workshops to help them develop skills that are vital to being a successful MYP, including improving negotiation skills, listening to young people more effectively and public speaking. David attended a social media workshop while Micheal, took part in talks on mental health - both priority issues for Greenwich Young People's Council (GYPC). All delegates got to take part in 'the big vote', voting on issues that matter most to their constituents. The delegates also selected the issues that will form the 'Make Your Mark' ballot, which gives young people a decision on the issues they think UKYP should take to the House of Commons. Last year, over 65,000 ballot forms were collected, with around 1,000 coming from Greenwich. David Hall said: "We took the views of the young people we represent and transformed them into campaigns that will benefit them. I'm really glad I got involved with UKYP as it changes young people's lives for the better!" The full manifesto will be available shortly. ## Carry on walking

RESIDENTS have been challenged to 'keep walking' by national charity Living Streets. It's urging people to walk as a healthy alternative to public transport after making changes to their travel options for the Games. Walkers can sign up at the Living Streets website to plan and log all their walks and see how much carbon saved. Cllr Harry Singh, royal Greenwich cabinet member for greener Greenwich, said: "Apart from the numerous health benefits, walking is a great way to get around and explore the royal borough. There is plenty to see and do and the best way to get around is on foot." For more information, or to sign-up, visit www.livingstreets.org.uk/get-walking-during-the-games

Vote of little horrors

by Grace Lipski

BOOKWORMS in the borough have been voting for their favourite Mungler as part of a summer reading challenge. They were taking part in a nationwide vote for their favourite monster character.

The Munglers feature in 21 trump cards created by children's author Guy Bass and Greenwich school children in 2009. The Mungler cards were so popular with royal borough children and were adopted by several other boroughs for use in libraries around the country to encourage more children to take up reading.

This year they're at the centre of the annual Summer Reading Challenge designed to encourage children to read over the holidays. Children receive five random cards after reading six books over the summer and receive a certificate at the end of the scheme for their efforts. The colourful monsters are ranked by their strength, size, speed, smell and scariness. Children posted their votes in special Munglers ballot boxes and polling booths across the country last week.

Brothers Callum, nine, and Ryley, five, went to Eltham Library with their mum to cast their vote.

Callum told GT: "Last year I voted for Miggles because he's cute but I might choose someone else this year. I really like reading and Roald Dahl is my favourite author."

Ryley said: "My favourite Mungler is Dr Improbable, he's funny. I like reading story books like Johnny Postman, my mum helps me."

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 301

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Royal Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector housing.

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

Town twins with Ancient Olympia

ROYAL Greenwich Mayor David Grant and council leader Chris Roberts welcomed a Mayor from Ancient Olympia earlier this month. Efthimios Kotzas came with a delegation from Greece which included sculptor Pavlos Kouglioumtzis. Traditionally, the Mayor of Ancient Olympia presents a statue of NIKE, the Goddess of Victory, to the Olympic Host City. The statue is set to be received by the royal borough on behalf of London in time for the Paralympic Games. During the visit the two mayors signed a town twinning agreement based on the Olympic values of friendship, excellence and respect. The agreement and the statue will establish the royal borough as part of the family of Olympic host cities. It's also part of the Olympic legacy which will help the royal borough to inspire future generations through the network.

coaching nights are Tuesday and Thursday with an introductory academy for Year 6-8 pupils, plus more serious training sessions for older children or those with particular promise. Champion athletes who were members include Nigerian triple jumper Tosin Oke who competed in the recent Games, and Steve Backley who won silver at the Sydney Games in 2000.

Sevens heaven!

YOUR team could compete on a surface like THIS!

PITCH PERFECT: the state-of-the-art facilities in Thamesmead. Inset: centre manager Simon Jones on one of pitches with Dawn Young, who is overseeing the development of Sporting Club Thamesmead FANCY playing competitive seven-a-side football on pitches like this that professionals would purr over? Well, you could have the chance this autumn.

A new league is set to be launched by Sporting Club Thamesmead (SCT), at Trust Thamesmead's soon-to-open £5m community sports and leisure hub. Sporting Club

Thamesmead centre manager Simon Jones told GT: "We are inviting teams from across south-east London and north Kent to join our new league which offers players the chance to play on state-of-the-art 3G floodlit pitches that are good enough for the professionals."
